Effective Consequences within Conscious Discipline

Traditional Consequences

Why Punishments Don’t Work

- Punishments are all about us and our judgment of the behavior, rather than about the child’s actions and how they have impacted others.
- Punishments don’t ask children to reflect on their actions or take personal responsibility.
- They don’t ask children to recognize or manage their emotions.
- They don’t teach missing skills.
- They don’t intrinsically motivate children to change their behavior.

Punishments vs. Consequences

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Punishments</th>
<th>Consequences</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Make children suffer for having a problem</td>
<td>Teach children how to solve problems</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cause children to fear making mistakes</td>
<td>Show children that mistakes are opportunities to learn</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rely on judgement</td>
<td>Rely on reflection and personal responsibility</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Provide extrinsic motivation to please others and avoid physical/emotional pain</td>
<td>Provide intrinsic motivation to use or learn new skills</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Focus on what not to do</td>
<td>Focus on what to do instead</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Ingredients of Effective Consequences

Connection

- Caring/willingness comes from a healthy relationship with others (connection). Children who are disconnected don’t care, so NO punishment or consequence will work.
- This is one reason you often see the same children punished again and again.
- Conscious Discipline promotes connection through the School Family, Brain Smart Start, I Love You Rituals, etc.
Reflection

- Children must reflect on their actions and outcomes in order for consequences to be effective.

- To reflect, children must be in the executive state. For this reason, it’s essential for adults to keep their composure when disciplining a child.

- Children need to reflect on their actions without judgement. Otherwise, they will be thrown to the lower centers of their brain. In Conscious Discipline, we teach children this skill using “noticing.”

Personal Responsibility

- Consequences only work when children take responsibility for their actions by taking ownership of their feelings.

- For this to happen, we must teach children THEY are in charge of their feelings and THEY have the power to change them. Otherwise, children will deflect blame and won’t recognize the need for growth/change.

- Conscious Discipline teaches children to recognize, regulate, and take ownership of emotions using the Safe Place, Feeling Buddies, S.T.A.R. breathing, etc.

The Bottom Line

Conscious Discipline has effective consequences instead of traditional consequences. Without the proper foundation, consequences won’t work. Without consciousness, there are no consequences.

This downloadable resource was published with Part 1: Why Conscious Discipline Consequences Work and Punishments Don’t (And How to Give Effective Consequences).